
The shared window is contained within the full interval: this is a descriptive comparison of nested data, not independent validation.